Carlos Manuel Reynosa, a proud graduate of Kean University with a B.A. in Communications/Journalism, is not just an author—he's a storyteller with a passion for connecting with readers through powerful narratives. As the youngest and only boy among three sisters, Carlos brings a unique perspective to his writing, drawing inspiration from his own experiences and the world around him.

"Night of the Phantom: Episode 1" tells the poignant story of Nick Solitario, a teenager navigating the complexities of life in New York City—the city that never sleeps. Faced with bullying, misperceptions, and the challenges of adolescence, Nick's journey is one of self-discovery and resilience. In a world where he feels misunderstood and isolated, he finds solace in comic books, escaping into a realm where he can be someone else—someone happy. As Nick grapples with the expectations of his peers, the pressures of his school environment, and the strict discipline of his loving yet demanding mother, readers will be drawn into a captivating narrative that explores themes of identity, acceptance, and the quest for belonging.

The New Providence Street Fair is renowned for its vibrant atmosphere and diverse offerings, rain or shine. Attendees will not only have the chance to meet Carlos and get their books signed but also enjoy a variety of artisan crafts, delicious food, and live entertainment throughout the day. It's a perfect opportunity for families and friends to come together, celebrate community, and discover local talent.

More than just a book, "Night of the Phantom: Episode 1" is an invitation to reflect on people's perceptions and the power of storytelling. Whether one is a lifelong reader or new to the world of literature, this event is not to be missed!
