New Solution and Service Launches Keeping Medical Billing Outsourcing Providers Competitive

Simione Healthcare Consultants, a company focusing on solving challenges related to home care and hospice announced the launch of its new medical billing outsourcing services in January 2021. The new offering was launched for hospice and home care providers to provide them with complete revenue cycle support. The move was intended to capitalize on the growing preference for home care among patients.

AMB Technology LLC, a new company was launched in 2023 to address the challenges of billing in the healthcare industry. The company launched its medical billing services with the aim of helping small healthcare institutions outsource their billing operations and enhance profitability along with efficiency.

Medical billing outsourcing companies are continually focusing on launching new solutions and services to maximize their business scope. Launching new offerings targeted toward specific sections of healthcare will be a preferred move for almost all medical billing outsourcing companies over the next few years.

Acquisitions and Collaborations Help Medical Billing Outsourcing Providers Expand their Market Share

In February 2023, Lightning MD, a renowned provider of cloud-based medical billing was acquired by Elation Health. Through this move, Elation entered the medical billing outsourcing market and took one step further in developing an all-in-one technology solution for primary care in healthcare establishments.
