When Doctors Have Eye Bags, What Do They Do? Dr. Sam Speron Shows the Way with his Modern Blepharoplasty Surgery

CHICAGO, IL, UNITED STATES,
November 12, 2024 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- Dr. Sam Speron, a renowned plastic surgeon in Chicago, is changing lives with his blepharoplasty surgery, an eyelid surgery that uses minimally invasive techniques to guarantee little fat removal, maintaining the eye area's natural fullness and ensuring young contour.

Dr. Speron's blepharoplasty procedures prioritize patient safety, comfort, and satisfaction, yielding life-changing outcomes with little recovery time, scars, or bruises.

Cause of Blepharoplasty

It is a well-known fact that aging affects the eyes, just like other parts of the body, as the excess skin and puffiness start appearing as eyelids droop and sag, giving the appearance of aging or exhaustion. It can also be a result of sun exposure or lifestyle choices. Whatever the reason, even when people feel alert and young, the loss of skin suppleness, muscle weakness, and fat displacement can give the appearance of fatigue and aging. Excess skin on the top eyelids can cause vision impairment in extreme situations. This makes many people self-conscious as they start looking for corrective surgery.

Dr. Speron's Blepharoplasty Surgery: Key Benefits

Dr. Speron's method maintains the eyes' youthful appearance and natural fullness, producing refreshed-looking but never fake results. Just 11% of patients in Dr. Speron's previous 100 consecutive blepharoplasty instances had post-operative bruising, and 98% of them did not need opioids to relieve their discomfort. Celebrex, an anti-inflammatory drug, is prescribed by Dr. Speron for five to seven days following surgery to promote a more comfortable and easy recovery. His cutting-edge methods shorten recovery times so patients can benefit from eyelid surgery without waiting a long time to heal.

Dr. Speron treats tear trough abnormalities, puffy lower eyelids, and drooping upper eyelids with both upper and lower blepharoplasty procedures. His strategies include creating individualized treatment programs for every patient, guaranteeing the best outcomes.

Stories of Patient Success

A 33-year-old woman, one of Dr. Speron's patients, sought therapy for drooping upper eyelids. Three months after undergoing a bilateral upper blepharoplasty, she saw a notable change in how her upper eyes looked. She avoided the frequent worry of seeming hollowed out by keeping her appearance natural without removing fat. The patient expressed her satisfaction with the outcome and felt much more confident now that she didn't require any more surgeries.

In a different instance, Dr. Speron performed bilateral upper and bottom blepharoplasty on a 68-year-old man. A year following the procedure, the patient's upper and lower eyelids naturally improved, giving them a smoother, younger appearance. No fat was removed, as is the case with all of Dr. Speron's treatments, and the patient saw a natural, refreshed appearance without the hollowing often associated with other methods.
