Cletodell Titus, Co-Founder and CEO of UYA, shared his vision for the academy “As a young adult, I dreamed of flying but faced limited opportunities. Our mission at United Youth Aviators is to make aviation accessible to today's youth, ensuring that they have the resources and support to turn their dreams into reality. This app is a significant step toward that goal, providing young aviators with the tools they need to succeed.”

The UYA app is designed to create a more efficient and user-friendly experience for aspiring pilots. By centralizing communication, students can easily access important updates, track their progress, and manage their training schedules, ultimately fostering a more organized learning environment.

The mobile app is now available for download on both iOS and Android platforms, making it accessible to all registered students at the academy.

“At Zorior, our mission is to empower our clients to thrive. With this app, we aimed to address the critical challenge of communication between aviators and administrators. Now, both parties can stay connected seamlessly, no matter where they are or when they need to communicate,” said Smit Nebhwani, Founder and CEO of Zorior.

Administrators can easily add new youth aviators and manage their profiles, streamlining the process of scheduling classes and inviting students. With an intuitive interface of the app, they can approve or deny class logs with ease, ensuring accurate record-keeping and compliance with training standards.

“Zorior's expertise and commitment were crucial in bringing our vision to life. Their skill in developing an app that not only meets our functional requirements but also enhances the overall experience for both our aviators and administrators is truly impressive. As this was our first app development venture, our technical knowledge was limited, but the Zorior team supported us every step of the way,” said Milton Davis, Co-founder and CIO at UYA.

Students benefit from enhanced interactivity as well. They can approve class invites, confirming their participation in upcoming sessions, and add their own class logs to keep track of their progress. Additionally, students can view their scheduled class in real-time, ensuring they are always informed about upcoming sessions and any changes.

By leveraging technology to enhance its services, UYA is committed to providing a world-class aviation education that empowers young people to achieve their dreams of flight.
