“We are honored to be recognized as one of the top companies within Revenue Cycle Management on the Avia Marketplace. Our track record of success with our current customers and our push to continually innovate Intelligent Automation solutions using AI will only enhance our leadership position within RCM.”

- Peter Camp, CTO & Founder, CampTek Software

The 2024 Top Revenue Cycle Management Companies Report represents the aggregation and analysis of client ratings and reviews as well as health system implementation data across the country and highlights broader industry trends to contextualize the impact the companies and products are currently having in the space. Given the complexity and evolving nature of Revenue Cycle Management, the report helps define the RCM landscape and how these solutions best support healthcare financial operations.

"In an era where financial sustainability is crucial for healthcare organizations, effective revenue cycle management stands at the forefront of ensuring operational efficiency and financial health," said Dhiraj Patkar, SVP of Digital Health Solutions at AVIA. "Healthcare providers today face increasing pressure to optimize their revenue cycles while improving the patient's financial experience. Our research underscores the transformative power of advanced RCM solutions in enhancing claims management, reducing denials, and streamlining patient billing processes. AVIA Marketplace is leading this evolution, providing health systems with the insights and tools needed to implement effective RCM strategies. By embracing these solutions, we can bridge the gap between financial performance and quality care delivery, ensuring health systems not only maintain financial stability but also lead the way in providing value-based care."

AVIA Marketplace is where innovative health systems and hospitals go to find the right digital health solutions. It's built to efficiently search vendors and guide informed decisions, with tools like product comparisons, match scores, report generators, peer reviews, and market insights.
