West Pine Asset Management Is Rolling Out A New Strategy Called Ethereum Growth Accumulation

PALM BEACH COUNTY, FL, UNITED STATES, October 17, 2024

/EINPresswire.com/ -- West Pine 43 LLC (WP), an RIA designed to meet the needs of high net worth clients, family offices, and institutions. West Pine Asset Management is rolling out a new strategy called Ethereum growth accumulation that's available for their advisors and clients. The strategy aims to acquire ETH directly in portfolios and present holders with the ability to later stake their ETH for additional rewards. CEO Kevin Pellegrini shares "We are excited about promoting this new strategy and think there are many benefits to owning ETH directly versus in an ETF wrapper or separately managed account." West Pine 43 LLC and Interactive Brokers have a relationship agreement with Paxos, a regulated blockchain infrastructure that provides institutional grade qualified custody. West Pine Asset Management plans to continue to educate on crypto and the growth component exposure offers portfolios.

West Pine Asset Management allows clients to own ETH directly in their brokerage accounts. CEO Kevin Pellegrini adds, "There are certain privileges privy to owning it directly versus owning it in a ETF wrapper or separately managed account. One is the ability to take possession of your ETH and to stake it for additional rewards." This comes at an opportune time just ahead of the Presidential election which could be next major catalyst for crypto. A trump would win surely add regulation which is bullish especially for alt coins. A more dovish fed and lower rates is also positive for risk assets. West Pine plans to continue to expand their internal strategies available to clients and advisors as well as their Discovered Managers Program. Their open architecture platform provides access to both traditional asset managers available at large firms as well as many of the more agile and emerging investment managers. Our goal is to utilize the solutions for helping to achieve whatever individual goals clients have. West Pine Asset Management's open-architecture platform provides access to both the traditional asset managers available at the large firms as well as many of the more agile and emerging investment managers. They also continue to add internal portfolio approaches that can be used by their advisors and clients.
