

Clean Group Shares Insights from ISSA on the “Air, Surface, Water” Trifecta of Cleanliness

SYDNEY, NSW, AUSTRALIA, October 18, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Clean Group is excited to share key findings from the recent ISSA Cleaning & Hygiene Expo, emphasizing the critical importance of maintaining cleanliness across three fundamental areas: air, surfaces, and water. These insights highlight emerging trends and essential practices that contribute to overall hygiene and health, particularly in office environments.

Recent research presented at the expo reveals that effective cleaning practices targeting these three elements can significantly reduce the spread of germs and improve indoor air quality. This holistic approach not only enhances the physical cleanliness of a space but also fosters a healthier environment for employees and visitors alike.

Key Findings:

Air Quality: Studies indicate that indoor air can be up to five times more polluted than outdoor air. Regular maintenance of air filtration systems and the use of air purifiers can help office cleaners maintain optimal air quality, thus reducing respiratory issues and improving overall well-being.

Surface Hygiene: High-touch surfaces in office settings are notorious for harboring bacteria and viruses. Implementing routine cleaning protocols, especially using eco-friendly and effective cleaning agents, is essential for reducing pathogen transmission.

Water Safety: Water quality directly impacts hygiene. Ensuring that water used by our office cleaners is free from contaminants is crucial. This includes using safe and effective cleaning methods to prevent cross-contamination.

“Our participation in the ISSA Expo reinforced our commitment to providing comprehensive cleaning solutions that address all aspects of cleanliness,” said Suji Siv, CEO of Clean Group. “As office cleaners, we recognize that our role extends beyond just surface cleaning; it encompasses maintaining air quality and ensuring water safety as well.”

By adopting a comprehensive strategy that focuses on the “Air, Surface, Water” trifecta, Clean Group aims to enhance its cleaning services, particularly in office environments where maintaining high standards of hygiene is paramount.
