

Paloma Arrigo, a Two-Sport Athlete, Co-Led Corona del Mar High School Girl's Sailing Team to National Championship Title

SAN DIEGO, CA, UNITED STATES, October 22, 2024

/EINPresswire.com/ -- The Corona del Mar High School girls' sailing team won the National High School Sailing Championship in Mission Bay, San Diego, on Saturday, October 19, and Sunday, October 20. The CdM Sea Queens competed in 20 races over two days of intense competition.

There was a silver sheen on the waters of Mission on Saturday, October 19th, as teen high school girls from all over the U.S. congregated for the Girls National Sailing Championship. At 1 pm, the wind built to 8 knots, and the racing began. Thirty (30) boats representing 26 high schools jostled for position on the starting line over 20 races in two days. Corona del Mar High School was in the lead at the end of day one. The wind reached 14 knots on day two, and the team held their lead. For the competitors Of those schools having two boats with two teams, Corona del Mar bested all competitors:

Corona del Mar High School
Point Loma High School
Mater Dei High School
