About David Eggers:

David Eggers, founder and CEO of Simple Solutions Behavioral Health is a successful entrepreneur, established community leader, and an ardent drug and alcohol recovery advocate.

The huge problem David saw with the quality of care for those in early recovery was what pushed him into the entrepreneurial world. Without a college degree, and with only business knowledge gained earlier in his career in management, David could not ignore what he calls divine inspiration, and set forth on faith alone.

Swift to learn, and experiencing a lot of early success, much of his company's fast growth can be attributed to David's democratic leadership philosophy, core values of love and fun in the workplace, and the importance of community and authenticity. Being a dedicated family man, David enjoys spending time with his close family. Recognizing the importance of mental health, he strives to maintain a work-life balance by playing with his beloved golden doodle "pup-pup", meditating, working out and not taking himself too seriously, ever.
