Web Studio is designed to simplify the website content creation process, making it more efficient and user-friendly. With its intuitive interface, users can easily create and customize web pages. The real-time preview feature allows teams to see exactly how their content will look and how it will behave as it responds to various screen size, mobile, etc.

Additionally, the built-in commenting, tagging, and approval system allows for easy collaboration and faster content approval, eliminating the need for back-and-forth emails and delays. Click any teammate's photo to jump to what they're viewing—instantly. For seamless editing, fields auto-lock to prevent conflicts, giving users the ability to see who's working where. Additionally, users will have the ability to leave comments directly on previews, tag teammates like @MarketingTeam, add emoji reactions, and create threaded discussions to keep conversations organized.

"We are thrilled to introduce Web Studio to our clients and the market. Our goal is to provide businesses with a powerful and user-friendly CMS that enables them to create and manage their website content with ease," said Jon Voigt, CEO of Agility CMS.
