WASHINGTON, DC, UNITED STATES, November 6, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The Federal Law Enforcement Officers Association is extending its congratulations to President-elect Donald J. Trump, and is extending its thanks to local and state election officials across the country for their role in safeguarding the right to vote for all, and aiding Americans to cast their votes in record numbers this election.

FLEOA also extends its congratulations to Vice President Kamala Harris on running a spirited campaign and gaining the support of many Americans.

Democracy itself requires fierce competition in free and fair elections, and regardless of political party, it is positive for our democracy to see experienced leaders debate solutions to problems that Americans face.

"Americans of all persuasions have expressed their voice through our election process," FLEOA President Mat Silverman said of the contest.

"With our next president elected, I encourage states, counties, and cities to uphold the rule of law, the peaceful right to assembly, and a lawful transition to the new administration."

All citizens of our country now deserve to have their interests represented in the White House and Congress. Americans of all political persuasions spoke about their continuing desire for public safety and continued support of law enforcement this election. FLEOA is prepared to work with the Donald J. Trump administration to help deliver on these commitments to the American public.
