- Spotlight on 2025's Must-Visit U.S. Destinations -

Reid Creek Lodge, Wyoming

Located in Wyoming's scenic east-central region, Reid Creek Lodge spans over 300,000 acres of secluded wilderness. "This property is a hidden gem," says Andrew Finn, EXP's Director of Sales. "It offers unmatched privacy alongside top-tier experiences." EXP Guides curate unforgettable itineraries from Reid Creek Lodge, which include horseback riding, watersports, stargazing, hiking, e-biking, and more. Whether for family trips, group getaways, or bucket-list adventures, this under-the-radar working ranch is dedicated to land and wildlife stewardship, making it an ideal spot for those seeking an authentic Western experience with complete privacy.

Four Corners

For 2025, EXP Journeys will take guests deeper into Four Corners, thanks to newly acquired permits for exclusive areas. Four Corners is a region of the Southwestern United States consisting of the southwestern corner of Colorado, the southeastern corner of Utah, the northeastern corner of Arizona, and the northwestern corner of New Mexico. "Four Corners is rich with culture, history, and modern adventure, making it one of our most inspiring destinations," says Kevin Jackson, EXP's Founder and CEO. Visitors will explore sites like Cannonball Mesa, an ancient ruin-rich area near the Canyons of the Ancients National Monument. A narrow strip of land that divides Yellow Jacket Canyon from McElmo Canyon, Cannonball Mesa offers an up-close look at archaeological remnants dating back to 1280 AD, with ruins that feel like a lost city. EXP's luxury tented camp in nearby McElmo Canyon provides unprecedented access, surrounds guests with incredible landscapes, and offers the chance to explore one of the country's most storied regions.

Ted Turner Reserve, Vermejo, New Mexico

Vermejo is a private reserve operated by Ted Turner Reserves in northeastern New Mexico and southern Colorado. With snow-capped alpine tundra, 19 fishable lakes, and over 550,000 stunning acres of picturesque land, Vermejo is the jewel of northern New Mexico. Its diverse landscape is home to a wide variety of wildlife, including elk, bison, black bears, and mountain lions. Whether riding horseback through open fields, exploring turn-of-the-century charcoal kilns, or fly fishing for Rio Grande cutthroat trout, Vermejo has something for everyone. "Situated in Northern New Mexico, the stunning landscapes, abundant wildlife, and luxury accommodations make Vermejo one of our favorite "playgrounds" to push the bounds of what is possible. Using motorbikes and mobile camps we can create the adventure of a lifetime here," says EXP Partner and Lead Guide Andrew Roberts. Vermejo is committed to fostering the preservation and restoration of the native ecosystems that support the diversity of life around us. This mission is best seen in the protection and repopulation of imperiled American bison and Rio Grande cutthroat trout.

During a visit, travelers can see the work of the Turner Endangered Species Fund and the property's natural resources and biodiversity specialists, learn more about the work they're doing on the property, and understand how their visit is helping protect and restore wildlife and the land. The property's forest health and stream restoration projects have resulted in an abundance of wildlife species making their home on Vermejo. After exploring the great outdoors, unwind at EXP's luxury tented camp with a book or board game or enjoy some frisbee or corn hole while your chef prepares fresh seasonal meals under the stars.
