“Veterans are more than our neighbors; they’re our friends, and their contributions are woven into the fabric of our communities,” stated Michael Kadisha, a Principal of K3 Holdings. “We recognize the unique challenges veterans face, and our commitment to them goes beyond housing. We strive to create supportive, dignified spaces where veterans can transition into civilian life with the stability and respect they deserve.”

Homelessness among veterans remains a critical issue nationwide, with veterans disproportionately impacted. To help combat this, K3 Holdings and Alpine LA Properties have expanded their commitment by developing initiatives that address the root causes of homelessness through a comprehensive approach. By offering not just housing but community and support, K3 and Alpine seek to provide veterans with resources that promote lasting independence and well-being.

"Homelessness is a challenge no veteran should face after serving our nation," added Nathan Kadisha, a K3 Principal. "We are determined to do our part by not only creating affordable housing options but also building communities where veterans can find hope, support, and a path forward."

This Veterans Day, K3 Holdings and Alpine LA Properties invite their communities to join in recognizing and celebrating the contributions of veterans. The companies hope to inspire others to express gratitude and actively contribute to making a meaningful impact on the lives of those who served.

"Veterans have given so much to protect our freedom, and it's our duty to ensure they feel supported as they transition to civilian life," Michael Kadisha continued. "By providing stable housing and a supportive community, we aim to show our veterans the same commitment they've shown to our country."
