We are dedicated to helping every student taking an AP® course succeed, especially in schools and districts that have expanded AP® access to all students.”

Steve Keay, President and CEO of Perfection Learning

“We are dedicated to helping every student taking an AP® course succeed, especially in schools and districts that have expanded AP® access to all students,” said Steve Keay, President and CEO of Perfection Learning. “Integrating learning science with the knowledge and experience of college professors, AP® table leaders, readers, exam writers, and award-winning high-school educators has enabled us to help countless AP® teachers and students succeed. The addition of Wiley’s AP and electives solutions will help us reach many more students in advanced math, science, social studies, and electives courses.”

“We are thrilled to collaborate with Perfection Learning to bring Wiley’s AP and elective materials to more students and educators across the K-12 landscape,” said Matthew Mermagen, Wiley Vice President of Market Operations. “This partnership will expand access to high-quality resources that support college and career readiness, allowing students to reach their full potential through engaging and rigorous content.”

Wiley publishes market-leading AP, honors, and elective materials for a variety of courses, including, Human Geography, Computer Science, Calculus, Precalculus, Physics, Environmental Science, Anatomy and Physiology, Psychology, Statistics, and more.
