

Walter Soriano, CEO of USG Security, Urges Stronger Data Protection as ICO Issues New GDPR Fine Guidance

Amid heightened enforcement, USG Security urges businesses to prioritize compliance and reduce risk of costly penalties under the UK GDPR

LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM,
November 28, 2024 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- In response to the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO) releasing new guidance on calculating fines under the UK General Data Protection Regulation (UK GDPR), USG Security underscores the critical need for organizations to strengthen their data protection measures to avoid substantial penalties.

The ICO's updated guidance, effective from March 2024, outlines a structured five-step approach to determining fines for data protection infringements, emphasizing the seriousness of the violation and the organization's turnover. This development signals a more rigorous enforcement landscape, where non-compliance can lead to significant financial repercussions.

Implementing robust compliance measures is essential to mitigate risks and ensure adherence to the UK GDPR.”
