

Women join forces to help women to help alleviate the pressure of the modern day woman in all areas of her life.

Dive into a multi author anthology book cover all the components of a woman's life from parenting to business to finances.

CHESTER, NJ, UNITED STATES, January 6, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Pinkfix Productions, a multi media company, is celebrating their newest best selling book: Rise and Find, an Ambitious Woman's Guide to Building Her Dream Life. Thirteen women from across the United States join forces to help the modern, high achieving women relieve some of the pressure society places on her. These inspiring women will narrate a new storyline for women, one with more support and grace. What these women found during their research, was that women face many challenges not just in their career or family life but also with nutrition, burnout, parenting, legal issues.

Jessica Weaver, founder and CEO of Pinkfix Productions, approached lead author of the project, Caroline Tanis, to put together a book featuring different women in business and their specialties. Caroline, who writes the introduction to the book along with her own chapter on women and finances, took the idea and ran with it. She sought out the leading women in their respective fields to make a well rounded book covering all the struggles the modern woman faces. After reading numerous self help, personal development books, Caroline noticed how conflicting the advice could be. She decided to bridge the gap between each area of a women's life and create a book with countless advice that supports each other rather than work against each other.
