“Let's say you're in the middle of a renovation or working on a job site; with Grunt, you don't have to waste time running to the store. Your supplies arrive while you keep working,” adds Horak.

"The soft launch gives local communities along the Emerald Coast a chance to try out the app. Contractors, tradespeople, and anyone with a project can now avoid wasting time in traffic or waiting for slow deliveries. Instead, the app offers an affordable, quick solution that keeps projects moving forward," says Horak.

“The app is perfect for those times when you finally get your electrician on-site, and they need to leave for supplies," says Co-Founder Kyle Petit. "We all know tradespeople are expensive, so instead of wasting time driving around, the app gets what you need delivered. It saves time and money by keeping people on the job."

"The app also proves to be a critical asset in emergencies. Whether a storm is approaching or you're facing an unexpected project delay, as long as it's safe to do so and stores are open, our app can pick up last-minute materials. Whether you need supplies urgently to secure a job site or finish repairs before an approaching storm, the app ensures you have what you need, when you need it." adds Petit.

The app isn't just about convenience for contractors, it's also a positive benefit for local businesses. By streamlining deliveries and handling pickups, the app helps small businesses avoid delays and ensure customers get their products in under two hours.

As a local business, the app is committed to supporting the Emerald Coast economy. The app also prioritizes hiring retired military, police, and first responders, ensuring that deliveries are handled by trustworthy professionals.
