Johnson Memorial Health Launches New Pharmacy Program to Help Self-Insured Employers in the Community Save on Prescription Drug Costs

FRANKLIN, IN, UNITED STATES,
November 15, 2024 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- In response to the growing burden of rising healthcare costs, Johnson Memorial Health has partnered with Woligo Pharmacy Solutions to launch an innovative pharmacy program designed to help self-insured employers in the JMH service area save money on their medical plan expenses. The new program focuses on lowering prescription drug costs and saves employers, on average, $500 - $1,000* per employee on the medical plan.

As the cost of healthcare continues to rise, many local employers are struggling to manage their budgets while still providing their employees with comprehensive coverage”

Dr. David Dunkle

Through this pharmacy savings initiative, self-insured employers will have access to resources that ensure their health plan and employees pay the lowest possible price for prescription medications. By leveraging price transparency and cutting-edge technology, Johnson Memorial Health aims to help ease the financial strain on both employers and their employees.

Key Benefits of the Pharmacy Program Include:

- Total Price Transparency: Price transparency is at the core of the Johnson Memorial pharmacy program. Eligible employers know where every dollar goes and why.

- Improved Cost Management for Employers: By offering access to lower-cost medications, the program allows self-insured employers to manage and reduce the costs associated with prescription drugs without sacrificing quality or coverage.

- Simple, Seamless Access: Johnson Memorial Health's pharmacy program integrates easily with existing medical plans, making it simple for employers to participate and for employees to access their prescription savings.

"As the cost of healthcare continues to rise, many local employers are struggling to manage their budgets while still providing their employees with comprehensive coverage," said Dr. David Dunkle, President and CEO of Johnson Memorial Health. "This new pharmacy program directly addresses one of the largest expenses in healthcare—prescription drugs—by ensuring that employers and employees alike get the best possible price for their medications."
