leading demolition and remediation company, today announced it has acquired Harrison Concrete Cutting (HCC), a concrete cutting and drilling company headquartered in Woodland, CA. This acquisition bolsters Precision's existing cutting and coring expertise and provides the company with a strategic geographical foothold to the greater Sacramento region.

“We are thrilled to be adding HCC's experienced technicians, state-of-the-art equipment, and strong industry relationships to our existing team,” said Joel Leineke, President and CEO of Precision Partners. “The concrete cutting business is growing and adding the service expertise and business acumen of HCC's president Josh Harrison will enable us to maximize our synergies and efficiencies for our clients”.

HCC will integrate initially with W.C. Maloney, a demolition specialist and Precision Partners company, to create an additional NorCal hub to enable a broader reach of the cutting and coring business. This will enable the optimization of efficiencies, up leveling of best practices, and continued premier service delivery throughout California and Nevada.
