Interest Rate Fluctuations – How changes in interest rates impact mortgage lending, homebuyer purchasing power, and overall market stability.

Housing Market Supply and Demand – An analysis of housing inventory trends and construction pressures affecting pricing and availability.

Technological Advancements in Real Estate – A look at emerging technologies with the potential to reshape real estate transactions and property management.

Regulatory Developments – Key updates on policy changes and new regulations affecting industry compliance and operations.

Impact of the 2024 Presidential Election – Perspectives on how the recent election may influence economic policies, industry regulations, and the real estate market in the coming years.

“Big changes are fun for economists but challenging for people trying to understand real estate,” Dr. Conerly said. “I’ll focus on what is likely to happen, as well as what business leaders should monitor in the coming year.”

Participation in WFG’s Quarterly Economic Outlook webinar is open to all, but reservations are required and may be made by registering here. The hour-long webinar includes commentary from Stone and Conerly, followed by a Q&A session. Questions for the presenters may be submitted at registration or emailed to wfgagencyevents@wfgtitle.com.

“Since launching our Quarterly Economic Outlook webinar series four years ago, our goal has been to provide real estate, mortgage, and title and settlement services professionals with meaningful insights that inspire confidence and drive success,” Stone said. “The overwhelmingly positive response from our audience has been truly rewarding, as participants find our discussions both enlightening and practical for navigating today’s challenges.”

During the third quarterly installment of WFG’s 2024 Economic Outlook webinar in September 2024, Stone and Conerly shared expert perspectives on the U.S. and global economies, alongside residential and commercial real estate trends.
