With offices in Encino, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, Ventura and Bakersfield, the law firm continues its commitment to protecting worker rights.

"California's wage and hour laws are complex, and unfortunately, violations remain widespread," says Mr. Michael Akopyan, Spokesperson for Akopyan Law Firm, A.P.C. "We're seeing an increasing number of cases where employees are denied their rightfully earned wages through various schemes, from misclassification to manipulated timekeeping systems."

Under California law, employees have the right to receive full and prompt payment for their labor, underscoring the importance of fair wages to support individuals and families. Despite these legal protections, wage and hour violations are common, leaving employees vulnerable.

Unpaid wage claims can arise from various violations, including failure to pay minimum wage, unpaid overtime, and unpaid hours worked. California courts uphold these rights firmly, as
