

Tribal Health Names T.J. Kline as Chief Operating Officer

SCOTTSDALE, AZ, UNITED STATES, November 21, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Tribal Health, the industry leader in healthcare solutions for Native American communities, today announced the promotion of T.J. Kline, MBA, to Chief Operating Officer. Kline will lead and scale the company's national business operations to support the company's ongoing commitment to healthcare excellence and transformation.

Kline has served Tribal Health in a financial management role since its early days, helping to fuel the company's consistent expansion. A committed advocate for the democratization of healthcare, Kline previously played an influential role at telemedicine leader MeMD and supported a national expansion of behavioral health facilities. He is also a venture capital associate at Xcellerant Ventures, which partners with innovative healthcare technology startups.

Chief Executive Officer Morgan Haynes praised Kline's expertise in healthcare operations and federal systems, saying she was thrilled to expand his scope to COO.

"Since cutting the first company check in 2015, T.J. has driven Tribal Health's momentum," said Haynes. "He immediately established himself as a natural and transformative business leader, able to deliver measurable results through both his meticulous fiduciary management and his empathetic approach to building high-performing teams. Operations are at the heart of how we serve our clients and I am confident T.J.'s gift for building key relationships and aligning operational and financial functions will intensify our long-term impact."

Chief Financial Officer Ashley Sanders commented, "T.J.'s creative spirit, innovative approach, and unwavering dependability have consistently elevated our work. His remarkable growth and dedication have set a high standard of excellence and we look forward to the results he will achieve in this new role."
