The President of IAOTP, Stephanie Cirmi, stated, "Having Hannah as a member of IAOTP is a great privilege for all of us. She is talented, gifted, and has exceptional vision, and she has achieved unparalleled success in her field. We cannot wait to celebrate her again at this year's Annual Awards Gala."

Hannah's extensive experience in financial and business management, spanning over two decades, has established her as a highly skilled and trusted expert. Leveraging her expertise, she founded HP & Co., a business management firm, and the High Net Worth Women Institute, a platform dedicated to advancing financial education for women.

Her career began at a renowned financial firm in Beverly Hills, where she managed portfolios for high-net-worth clients, gaining invaluable insights into their unique needs. Recognizing untapped opportunities in this market, she launched her own firm, dedicated to helping individuals and families manage their portfolios, businesses, and lifestyles. Hannah's unique approach to financial management, which includes crafting generational wealth plans, overseeing high-value assets, and assembling top advisory teams, sets her apart and ensures clients' financial success. Her expertise in these areas is unparalleled, making her an invaluable resource for clients seeking comprehensive financial guidance. Her work extends beyond finance, encompassing business development, management, networking, and community building, with a focus on fostering strong, relationship-centered financial planning.

In addition to her successful business management career, Hannah serves as the COO of the High-Net-Worth Women Institute (HNWWI), a specialized financial education platform dedicated to empowering women. HNWWI provides tailored expertise on asset classes, investment principles, and wealth management strategies, along with guidance on building effective advisory teams and fostering supportive networks of like-minded women. Graduates gain practical, actionable insights to confidently pursue long-term financial success.

Hannah is also an active member of the W Source and the XX Project, prominent networking organizations for female professionals. She further contributes her leadership as a board member of the UC Santa Barbara Women in Leadership Executive Program, supporting the advancement of women in executive roles.

Throughout her illustrious career, Hannah has received many awards and accolades and has been recognized worldwide for her accomplishments. In 2023, Ms. Peaslee was awarded IAOTP's Top CEO of the Year and Empowered Woman of the Year. Additionally, Hannah was featured on the famous Nasdaq Billboard in Times Square for her accomplishments. She will be honored for her selection to be featured in IAOTP's 50 Fearless Leaders publication and for being named Top CEO of the Decade 2024 at IAOTP's annual Awards gala at Nashville's magnificent Opryland Hotel this December.

Looking back, Hannah attributes her success to her perseverance, work ethic, and mentors she has had along the way. When not working, she enjoys traveling and spending time with her family and friends. In the future, she hopes to continue to grow her business and inspire others.
