"Latin America represents a crucial growth opportunity for our global customer base," said Ivan Halynkin, Director of Marketing at is*hosting. "By partnering with EdgeUno, we're eliminating the complexity traditionally associated with multi-market deployments in the region, allowing our customers to focus on their core business objectives."

The partnership provides is*hosting customers with several key benefits:
+ Streamlined deployment processes across all six markets
+ Local technical support and expertise

+ Simplified regulatory compliance
+ Reduced time-to-market for regional expansion
+ Access to EdgeUno's state-of-the-art data centers and infrastructure

EdgeUno's CEO commented, "We're excited to support is*hosting's expansion into Latin America. Our white-glove services and deep regional expertise perfectly complement is*hosting's global capabilities, creating a powerful solution for businesses looking to establish or expand their presence in these dynamic markets."

The expansion is effective immediately, with is*hosting now accepting customer deployment requests across all six Latin American markets. Existing is*hosting customers can seamlessly extend their infrastructure into these new regions through their current service agreements.
