EINPresswire.com/ -- In classrooms across the country, teachers are experiencing relief from phone-related disruptions, thanks to NuGerm's NuKase—a durable, hard-shell phone storage solution that securely locks away student phones. Designed specifically for schools, the NuKase offers a reliable, tamper-resistant way to keep phones out of sight and mind, resulting in a more focused classroom environment and fewer conflicts over phone use.

“

Before the NuKase, phone use was a constant battle. Now that students store their phones at the start of the day, our teachers can focus on teaching rather than policing devices.”

Principal Lauren Hughes

Administrators and teachers at schools such as Northview Middle School and Lakeside High have already integrated NuKase into their daily routines and are seeing a large reduction in student phone use. By requiring students to lock their phones at the beginning of each school day, NuKase eliminates the need for teachers to monitor phone use, leading to fewer phone use confrontations and a stronger focus on academic engagement.

“Before the NuKase, phone use was a constant battle,” says Principal Lauren Hughes of Northview Middle School. “Now
