The National is an annual gathering of sports fans, collectors, dealers and any other groups interested in collecting trading cards, autographs and other related memorabilia, and the full event is open to the public. Approximately 150 sports superstars were on hand for autograph signing opportunities this summer in Cleveland. For the 45th National in 2025, promoters have already released several celebrity names including Dennis Rodman, Patrick Ewing, Rickey Henderson and Jeff Bagwell, with many more names yet to announce.

Ticket packages begin at $25 for single person, single day general admission, with an additional package that spans the full five days and offers early admissions, and with two VIP level packages, one of which provides an “all-access” VIP level experience.

“We encourage our existing and returning fans, and our rapidly growing base of new fans, to take advantage of this early ability to lock in tickets for the greatest sports collectors' experience ever at the 45th National," said JBJ Promotions NSCC show managers.

This summer, Barron's reported on the explosive growth of the sports memorabilia industry, quoting research from consulting group Market Decipher, which is forecasting the industry will be valued at $227.2 billion by 2032, representing a near ten-fold increase from $26.1 billion in 2021.

Due to the incredible demand, the move to Chicagoland allows for more space to accommodate more fans and more vendors. The 45th National will have a 30% larger footprint - 650,000 square feet - and nearly 20% more space for vendors. Promoters anticipate well over 100,000 fans over the course of the five-day event.
