Bene Seeds is an independent tomato breeding and seed company based in the San Francisco Bay Area, which was co-founded by the late Dr. Fred Hempel. Bene Seeds owns a large collection of high-quality tomato breeding materials and specializes in developing new varieties with both excellent flavor and appearance and a long shelf life. The company is pioneering the development of new Heirloom Plus(TM) varieties, which are improved hybrid types that have been selected and developed from traditional heirloom cultivars.

Queen Bee Tomato

As part of the collaboration, the two companies undertook a multi-year project together, led by breeders Dr. Fred Hempel and Dr. Emily Hagen at Johnny's. Sabina Khan-Ibarra, Head of Marketing at Bene Seeds said, "We're thrilled to announce that two new premium tomato varieties, Queen Bee and Honey Bee, are now available to growers. These new varieties are both beautiful in appearance, bearing characteristic stripes, but also offer exceptional flavor. We are delighted that our partnership has been a success, and we are excited to share these innovative varieties with gardeners and growers across the country, combining the trusted reputation of Johnny's Selected Seeds with Bene Seeds' dedication to breeding exceptional tomatoes."

Peter Zuck, Product Manager at Johnny's Seed said, "The launch of these new varieties is a fitting testament to the work of Dr. Fred Hempel and his long-standing relationship with Johnny's. These beautiful new tomatoes reflect the shared commitment of both Bene Seeds and Johnnys to bring sustainable and impactful novel varieties of vegetables to market. Our partnership highlights the benefits of utilizing germplasm from both Bene Seeds and Johnny's to produce top-tier tomatoes that meet the needs of growers and culinary enthusiasts alike."
