What Is Driving The Growth Of The Glucose Market?

Surge in demand from the bakery and confectionery sector is expected to fuel the glucose market going forward. Confectionery is a term used to denote sweets or chocolates with high sugar and carbohydrate content. Bakers' confections and sugar confections are the common varieties of confectionery. Glucose, being a flavor enhancer for candies and other foods, is utilized in the creation of bakery and confectionery products. For instance, in December 2022, the Netherlands-based government organization, Center for the Promotion of Imports from developing countries, reported that global cocoa bean grinding activities amounted to approximately 4,973 thousand tons in the 2020–2021 cocoa year, marking a 5.7% increase over 2019–2020. Therefore, the growing demand from the bakery and confectionery sector has been steering the growth of the glucose market.
