Innovative Multifunctional Solar Lamp Recognized for Excellence in Lighting Design

COMO, CO, ITALY, December 3, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The A' Design Award, a highly prestigious and well-recognized award in the field of lighting design, has announced Junjie Xie as a Bronze winner in the Lighting Products and Fixtures Design category for the innovative work "CZ6-23001". This multifunctional solar lamp showcases exceptional design excellence and functionality, earning its place among the best in the industry.

CZ6-23001 stands out for its relevance to current trends and needs within the lighting industry. By integrating solar charging technology, this environmentally friendly product reduces pollution and promotes renewable resources. Its compact design and versatile features, including a nightlight, flashlight, portable power bank, and mosquito repellent functions, make it an ideal companion for outdoor travel and activities.

The unique design of CZ6-23001 sets it apart from competitors. The solar and lighting modules are cleverly designed for easy storage, while the built-in mosquito coil plate allows for hassle-free mosquito repellent action. The detachable handle structure provides flexibility in hanging the product, adapting to various environments. With a powerful flashlight module capable of illuminating up to 200 meters and a 10000mAh high-performance lithium battery, this lamp offers reliable and long-lasting performance.

Winning the Bronze A' Design Award in the Lighting Products and Fixtures Design category serves as a motivation for Junjie Xie and the team to continue striving for excellence and innovation in future projects. This recognition highlights their dedication to creating products that not only enhance functionality but also contribute to environmental sustainability and user convenience.

CZ6-23001 was designed by Jun Jie Xie, with Xue Dong Weng as the Design Director and Ke Zou as a designer on the project.
