

IHH Healthcare Takes Leadership in Sustainable Healthcare

KUALA LUMPUR, MALAYSIA, December 5, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- IHH Healthcare (IHH), one of the world's largest private healthcare groups, is transforming patient care by embedding sustainability into its global operations. From renewable energy initiatives to innovative clinical practices, the group is setting benchmarks in healthcare sustainability.

This is what healthcare leadership looks like - leveraging our global expertise and footprint to transform care and shape a sustainable future."

Dr Prem Kumar Nair, Group CEO of IHH Healthcare

Hospitals are known for their high energy consumption, extensive use of disposables, and generation of hazardous waste. IHH Healthcare is aiming to harness these challenges as opportunities for impactful change.

"As a global healthcare provider operating across 10 countries and touching millions of lives each year, we have a responsibility to do more - and we must," said Dr Prem Kumar Nair, Group CEO of IHH Healthcare. "Our aspiration to Care. For Good. drives us to deliver world-class care with empathy, while we actively build a more sustainable world for generations to come."

IHH is transforming patient care by offering exceptional clinical outcomes with faster, easier and more accessible solutions. As Asia's first private healthcare provider to introduce value-based care, IHH is leading the way in delivering cost-effective treatment without compromising quality.

Key Sustainability Milestones

IHH Healthcare has set ambitious, measurable sustainability targets to achieve net-zero carbon emissions by 2050, supported by several initiatives:

□ Clean Energy: The group is installing rooftop solar panels across Malaysian hospitals by 2026 and launching a solar project in Türkiye that will supply up to 80% of Acibadem's electricity.

□ Plastic Reduction: In Singapore and Malaysia, IHH has reduced single-use virgin plastics in non-clinical areas by up to 99%.

□ Anaesthetic Gas Emissions: Efforts to minimize harmful emissions are underway in key markets, including Malaysia, Singapore, Türkiye, India, and Hong Kong.

Yasemin Tecmen Stubbe, Group Head of Sustainability at IHH, emphasized the connection between environmental health and human health: “Climate change isn’t just a distant issue—it directly impacts our well-being. Our mission is to integrate sustainable practices into every aspect of healthcare.”

Community and Public Health Initiatives

Beyond environmental efforts, IHH is addressing critical public health challenges, including:

□ Promoting the responsible use of antibiotics.

□ Reducing the disease burden through education and healthcare access for underserved communities.

□ Innovating solutions for broader healthcare accessibility.

Dr Nair concluded, “Sustainability is not a buzzword but our long-term commitment to achieve meaningful, lasting change.

“This is what healthcare leadership looks like - leveraging our global expertise and footprint to transform care and shape a sustainable future.”
