-- CollegelQ, the innovative and free college search platform, is proud to announce the launch of its first-ever scholarship program, designed to help students achieve their higher education goals. This scholarship opportunity is open to any student planning to attend a four-year college during the 2025-2026 school year—whether they are current high school seniors or already enrolled college students.

“

At CollegelQ, we believe that college is a life-changing experience, but we also understand how financial barriers can stand in the way of students' dreams”

Andrew Allemann

Recognizing that students lead busy lives, CollegelQ has simplified the application process. Instead of requiring lengthy essays or complex submissions, applicants will answer a simple question: What do you think is the most important factor to consider when choosing a college?

This scholarship is uniquely inclusive, with no minimum GPA requirements or transcript submissions needed, making it accessible to students from all backgrounds.

“At CollegelQ, we believe that college is a life-changing experience, but we also understand how financial barriers can stand in the way of students' dreams,” said Andrew Allemann, founder of CollegelQ. “Our new scholarship program reflects our commitment to helping students find their best-fit college while easing the financial burden of higher education.”

CollegelQ is not just another college search site. It is a unique college search platform that encourages students and their families to think beyond traditional metrics like GPA and test scores when selecting a college. With CollegelQ, students can explore colleges based on unique factors such as:

Climate: Average winter temperatures, snowfall, and sunny days.

Geography: Proximity to the coast or national parks.

Social Issues: Campus carry gun laws and diversity, equity, and inclusion policies.

Recently, CollegenIQ released the results of a study examining which issues current high school students say will influence their decision on where to attend college. The survey revealed that campus carry gun laws are a major influence on college decisions.
