Misaligned teeth are something many patients primarily experience as a psychosocial dental condition. However, crooked teeth can cause oral health issues that affect overall well-being. By offering clear braces, All Smiles Dental wants to encourage more people to get their teeth straightened for improved self-esteem and dental health.

"You'll achieve a fantastic smile with little interruption in your daily life. The best part about the whole orthodontics procedure is that most people won't even know you're straightening your teeth," a company spokesperson said.

According to Consumer Affairs, misaligned teeth are associated with several issues, like the ability to chew properly, increasing the risk of sleep apnea, and reducing speech clarity, which could affect several aspects of a person's life. Invisalign has steadily grown in popularity as a remedy for malocclusion and has been used to treat 17 million patients as of 2023. The clear aligners have an 80-90% success rate for mild to moderate cases.

While Invisalign isn't suitable for severe misalignments, the technology has come a long way since it was released to the public in 1999. All Smiles Dental can combine Invisalign with other appliances like elastics for jaw alignment and extraction cases. The clinic offers various alternative orthodontic treatments for children, teens, and adults.

A patient shared their experience: "So glad I got my Invisalign braces done with All Smiles! The girls made me feel welcome and at ease straight away. Whenever I had a small part that needed to be fixed or amended, they were quick to accommodate me. Super happy with the results and how my teeth look."
