“

Black women are Majestic and Intelligent. The Awards celebrates sisterhood and changes the negative narratives surrounding us. It cements the connection between Africa and it's Heirs in the diaspora.”

Koshie Mills

This year Heirs of Afrika's mantra was Ascension, Lets Rise Together! The elegant Awards program was created to honor black women and celebrate sisterhood. The diversity and kaleidoscope of global black women in the room created a sophisticated atmosphere of royalty and inspiration. The Signature Throne Room where the Queens were photographed in their full regalia and invited to claim their thrones was unmatched. The power of excellence was displayed in the entertainment quality and programming, hosted by Emmy and NAACP Award-winning Actor and Producer, Wendy Raquel Robinson.

The show commenced with an ancestral welcome of the powerful sounds of African drums and affirmation by the host, Robinson. Attendees were invited to declare, "I AM A DAUGHTER OF THE SOIL,"™ and I AM A SON OF THE SOIL".™ The moment permeated the ballroom air with its culturally fragrant ambiance and set the tone for the palpable love, camaraderie, and positive energy. A true testament to the need and reason why Founder Koshie Mills curated this safe space, to fuel and infuse black women with love. Miss Heirs of Afrika this year shines brightly in Ghanaian-American Vivian Yeboah (A/K/A Young Africana).

Hundreds of black women laughed, cried, and danced to the electrifying magical performance and mini concert by Iconic musical artist, hailing from West London, Estelle!

Says Koshie Mills,' "Black women are majestic, strong, and intelligent, yet we are rarely celebrated and highly underestimated. My goal with Heirs of Afrika International Women of Power Awards is to change the narratives surrounding us, by demonstrating how much we love each other, and how our magnificence is worthy of celebration. It's time we anchored ourselves in our power as African women, who understand the immense value we bring to the world. The Awards continue to cement the connection between Africa and its Heirs in the diaspora. That was my intention."

Six women of Power from across various industries and countries were Honored and chosen this year. They are change agents, thought leaders, trailblazers, captains of industries and dynamic representations in their communities.
