are behind us, economic uncertainty continues to loom this holiday season. As we look to the New Year ahead, many people want fresh ideas to achieve financial security and set aside money for the future. In his new book, God's Money Flow: The Creator's System to Build and Manage Wealth, author and speaker Darwin German unveils astonishing biblical principles that provide a pathway to abundance.

More than just a guide to saving and investing, the book offers divine keys found in the Holy Bible to manage not only our money but our time, skills, and relationships wisely to receive and share the overflow of God's blessings.

“As a real estate syndicator, I manage other peoples' assets, so they make a profit. When I fulfill my responsibilities with excellence, everybody wins—the investors and I all earn money. It's the same with God's assets,” says German, who has completed more than $1 billion in real estate transactions throughout his career. “Everything belongs to God—our time, our money, our connections. The Bible teaches us how to manage those things with excellence, so we can thrive personally and financially. When we follow God's blueprint, we can not only live affluently but also give generously to help people in need.”

German first became interested in exploring God's instruction about finances after attending a meeting for Christian business owners at his church in North Texas in the 1990s. Inspired by the message of a visiting preacher and the small group discussion that followed, German committed to studying God's Word for insight on how to achieve financial success, so he could share this knowledge with others. The Bible includes more than 2,000 scriptures related to money, the author notes, and covers everything from giving, investing, and debt to work, wisdom, and contentment. What's more, God has designed a specific framework, which German neatly illustrates in a flowchart used throughout God's Money Flow, for how we are to acquire, protect, and multiply wealth.

Today, German is passionate about helping others discover God's views on financial stewardship and the keys to prospering in every part of life. "I cannot take credit for the insights in the book," he says, adding, "God deserves all the glory. I simply hope the information is a blessing to everyone who reads it."

God's Money Flow: The Creator's System to Build and Manage Wealth will be available on Amazon in paperback and Kindle formats December 12, 2024.
