In the Middle East edition, over 500 consulting firms were assessed for their risk and compliance expertise, of which 59 qualified as top players. Our progression from Bronze to Gold highlights the trust our clients place in us and reflects the value of our tailored solutions."

Johnny Kollin

Assessing what defines a "top consulting firm" is inherently subjective, influenced by variables such as service focus, regions, and other factors. To address this, Consultancy Middle East uses a holistic methodology combining two equally weighted elements:

1. The Capabilities Assessment (50%) leverages Consultancy.org's extensive database to evaluate five dimensions: capabilities, awards, prestige, thought leadership, and popularity.
2. Client and Consultant Feedback (50%)—In 2024, over 900 client reviews and 2,800 firm reviews from consultants contributed to an informed perspective on firm performance and market impact.

All consulting firms operating in the Middle East automatically qualify for assessment, ensuring inclusivity and impartiality. Firms meeting the data threshold are ranked across five tiers—Diamond, Platinum, Gold, Silver, and Bronze—and further sorted by their average scores within each category. Notably, differences within tiers can be minimal, and unranked firms may still excel in their fields.

Johnny Kollin, Founder and Managing Director of Várri Consultancy, says: “Our progression from Bronze to Gold highlights the trust our clients place in us and reflects the value of our tailored solutions. This achievement motivates us to build on our expertise and continue delivering innovative strategies for our clients.”
