-- Dr. Barbara M. Panther-Gibby brings history to life in her compelling new book, Uncle Ted: A GI's Journal of World War II. This richly detailed narrative chronicles the journey of her Uncle Ted, a young American soldier drafted in 1941, as he navigates the harrowing realities of World War II.

A True American Hero's Journey

Ted's story begins with his induction into the U.S. Army and follows him through a series of remarkable assignments. From serving as a gunner aboard B-17 bombers with the Air Corps to driving for the high-stakes Red Ball Express supply line, Ted's journey captures the resilience and determination of the American GI.

However, the most gripping part of Ted's story unfolds in November 1944, when he parachutes into the Siegfried Line at the Belgium-German border. Landing in the midst of one of the bloodiest battles of the European Theatre, Ted faces months of terror and hardship that test his courage and endurance. His journal entries from this period provide a raw, unfiltered look at the horrors of war and the unbreakable spirit of those who fought for freedom.
