

The Romantic Comedy 'A Brooklyn Love Story' Now on VOD

Not Since 'The Sopranos,' Have so Many Lovable Wise Guys Appeared Together on Screen!

BROOKLYN, NY, UNITED STATES,
December 16, 2024 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- A postcard to Brooklyn and to the value of friendships, family, tradition and love, the romantic comedy A Brooklyn Love Story will premiere on major VOD platforms, beginning Dec. 13 on Amazon. Not since The Sopranos have so many lovable wise guys appeared together on screen.

Filmed on location in Brooklyn and inspired by a family story, A Brooklyn Love Story was directed by Steven Feder (the upcoming Sing to Me; Charlie Irish; It Had to Be You; The Cottonwood) and stars Michael Morano (Wrong for Right, Insight; Goodfellas), Katie McCarty (Just for Showmance; Younger; The Blacklist), Dan Grimaldi ("Patsy/Philly Parisi" on The Sopranos), Michael Rispoli (Death to Smoochy; The Rum Diary; Kick-Ass), Vincent Pastore ("Bigg Pussy" on The Sopranos; Carlito's Way), Joseph D'Onofrio (A Bronx Tale; Jungle Fever; Good Fellas), Anthony Manganò (The Dictator; Inside Man; Raising Helen; Green Book; Point Break) and Christopher Ryan (American Horror Story).

More About A Brooklyn Love Story ...

Romance blossoms despite the odds for Mike Moona (Michael Morano) & Honey Caputo (Katie McCarty).

Pops Moona (Dan Grimaldi), the beloved, longtime owner of a family run Brooklyn grocery is pressured to sell in a greedy bid to gentrify the neighborhood ... until a lovable, local mobster concocts a crazy plan to save the day.

Fiercely loyal to family, friends and his Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, neighborhood, affable Mike Moona helps run a three-generation fruit and vegetable store, The Golden Gate, owned by his father, lovingly known to the neighborhood as "Pops."

However, Borough President Gregory McGuire and a hotshot developer are determined to force the family to sell their land in a greedy bid to gentrify the neighborhood. Making matters worse, Mike and Gregory have a contentious past dating back to high school.

The Wise Guys get behind Pops (Dan Grimaldi).

A handsome widower, Mike's also lonely and trying to get his groove back. When he meets Honey Caputo, he's instantly smitten ... But Honey works for the man plotting to end the family's legacy business. While love blossoms despite the odds, things begin to look grim for the store.

When Little Tony Butchie, the not-so-threatening neighborhood hood, hears about the dilemma, he and his ragtag crew—who love Pops—make things uncomfortable, concocting a crazy plan to save the day.

Logline:
