

Jungmin Lee: Transforming Memories into Art – Featured in WOWwART Magazine,

Jungmin Lee, featured in WOWwART's debut issue, transforms memories into art, blending nostalgia, dreams, and heritage through mixed media.

LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, December 11, 2024 / EINPresswire.com/ -- WOWwART Magazine, the newly launched London-based art and culture publication, proudly features South Korean artist Jungmin Lee in its debut issue. Known for her evocative mixed-media creations that blend personal and collective memory, Lee's work has captivated audiences worldwide. In an exclusive interview titled "Dreams and Found Materials," Lee shares her inspirations, creative process, and the profound cultural heritage that shapes her art.

Jungmin Lee's art is a celebration of nostalgia, dreams, and the tactile warmth of memory. Her intricate, miniature worlds—crafted from found materials and mixed media—invite viewers to explore themes of belonging, identity, and emotional resilience. "Art helps me bring back the forgotten past," Lee reflects. "Drawing, painting, and sculpting make me remember what I enjoyed, when I felt a strong emotion, and allow me to slow down in my present life."

WOWwART Magazine cover

Content page-wowwartz

Lee's work is deeply rooted in her South Korean heritage, drawing inspiration from childhood memories, family traditions, and ancestral rituals. Her piece 'Cabinet', a layered collage of stamps, stickers, and pages from her mother's notebooks, exemplifies her ability to bridge personal history with broader cultural narratives. "From my memories in Korea, the traditional foods and ancestral rites with my family come to my mind," Lee explains. "Often, my family members and their personalities become my starting point to sketch the unknown creatures or my imaginary friend characters."

In the interview, Lee also discusses the role of dreams in her creative process, describing them as "uncertain, blurry, and weird," which opens up endless possibilities for experimentation. "Dreams give me free ground to start from," she says. "They represent less pressure and motivate me to switch the storyline, draw without a plan, or combine found materials."

WOWwART Magazine, which celebrates the diverse talents of artists, photographers, and curators, also presented Lee with its prestigious "Creative Excellence Award". The magazine praised her ability to transform ordinary objects into extraordinary visual narratives, calling her work "intensely personal and universally resonant."

Jungmin Lee's work is a mesmerizing blend of nostalgia, dreams, and cultural heritage, brought to life through her innovative use of mixed media. Her art captures the essence of memory and emotion, creating miniature worlds that invite viewers to explore profound storytelling and personal connections.

Dreams and Found Materials

Discovering the imaginative process behind Lee's unique, tactile creations

JUNGMIN LEE

30 • WOWWART

Jungmin Lee, an accomplished artist from Incheon, South Korea, finds inspiration in the whimsical realms of childhood, dreams, and family. A graduate with distinction from Art Center College of Design, her work beautifully blends found and mixed media, sculpting from discarded memories, and the tactile creation of 3D objects. Her art is a vivid testimony of imagination and beautiful narratives.

When I was young, my family liked to go on trips to visit my grandma in the Midwest and my uncle in the Midwest. I remember when my grandmother brought small things to me on a cold winter evening. I remember when my grandmother brought small things to me on a cold winter evening. I remember when my grandmother brought small things to me on a cold winter evening. I remember when my grandmother brought small things to me on a cold winter evening.

Jungmin Lee captivates audiences with her profound storytelling, transforming ordinary objects into extraordinary visual narratives that resonate with universal human warmth.

What role do dreams play in your creative process, and how do you incorporate them into your work? Dreams to me are mysterious, literary, weird and often open possibilities to new spaces. It can be a challenge finding the thinking and the meaning behind the new spaces of my creations. In my dream, I often see a landscape that I have never seen before. I often see a landscape that I have never seen before. I often see a landscape that I have never seen before.

How do you find time to create art, and what motivates you to do so? I like to create art because it allows me to express myself and share my thoughts with others. I like to create art because it allows me to express myself and share my thoughts with others. I like to create art because it allows me to express myself and share my thoughts with others.

Can you describe how your childhood experiences in South Korea influence your artistic themes and subject?

Jungmin Lee's Interview

Creative Excellence Award

The Creative Excellence Award highlights Jungmin Lee's ability to transform everyday moments into extraordinary works of art, resonating with audiences on a global scale. Her dedication to preserving cultural identity while pushing artistic boundaries has made her a standout figure in contemporary art.

Through her art, Lee creates "miniature worlds" that reflect both individual and collective dynamics. "The process of creating a small environment gives coziness and warmth to my mind," she shares. "I hope this feeling could help to share the playful spirits and healing aspects of art."

About Jungmin Lee

Award Lee

Jungmin Lee is a South Korean artist and designer whose work explores themes of memory, identity, and cultural heritage. A graduate with distinction from the ArtCenter College of Design, Lee uses mixed media and found materials to create intricate, tactile pieces that evoke nostalgia and emotional connection. Her art has been celebrated for its profound storytelling and ability to transform everyday objects into extraordinary visual narratives.

About WOWwART Magazine

WOWwART Magazine is a London-based art and culture publication that serves as a gateway to the dynamic art world. Featuring engaging interviews, insightful articles, and captivating visuals, the magazine celebrates the diverse talents of artists, photographers, and curators. Available in print and digital format across 190 countries, WOWwART enhances visibility and engagement, fostering a deeper appreciation for creative expression. Its mission is to inspire and connect a global community, empowering future generations to embrace the transformative power of art.

Ben Alan

Newyox Limited

press@newyox.media

Visit us on social media:

Facebook

X

Instagram

This press release can be viewed online at: <https://www.einpresswire.com/article/768055322>

EIN Presswire's priority is source transparency. We do not allow opaque clients, and our editors try to be careful about weeding out false and misleading content. As a user, if you see something we have missed, please do bring it to our attention. Your help is welcome. EIN Presswire, Everyone's Internet News Presswire™, tries to define some of the boundaries that are reasonable in today's world. Please see our Editorial Guidelines for more information.

© 1995-2024 Newsmatics Inc. All Right Reserved.