Deemed a significant danger to neighboring residents, the project was initiated on Wednesday, December 4th. CAM's highly trained environmental specialists quickly mobilized and completed the project within 72 hours, resulting in 10 arrests, and the removal of 25 individuals, five RVs and over 60,000 tons of dangerous materials.

“

CAM is dedicated to delivering effective solutions that balance the needs of the community with the dignity and well-being of individuals experiencing homelessness,”

“Addressing homelessness and drug addiction have long been contentious issues in the state of California,” said David A. Herrera, President of CAM Property Services. “Elected officials and property owners face numerous challenges when it comes to removing encampments such as this, which often pose significant health and safety risks to tenants and the community at large. CAM is dedicated to delivering effective solutions that balance the needs of the community with the dignity and well-being of individuals experiencing homelessness.”

This past October, California Governor Gavin Newsom expanded the state's effort to address homelessness by awarding $130.7 million to 18 local governments to clear homeless encampments and provide shelter, care, and support. The Governor also announced accountability measures, requiring award recipients to adhere to all state housing and homeless laws or risk losing funding and face enforcement actions.

For municipalities and property owners seeking a reliable partner in this endeavor, CAM provides the expertise, compassion, and execution needed to make a positive impact. The company offers a wide range of services, including junk hauling, day porters, landscaping and xeriscaping, janitorial, pressure washing, steam cleaning, ADA remediation and CASp, trash chute cleaning and repair, and aerial drone inspections.
