“

We are very excited about this milestone, which represents an important step forward in our efforts to connect everyday cash transactions with the growing world of blockchain-based finance.”

Joe Parkin - Co-founder of Zypto

Zypto’s integration delivers a straightforward, reliable way for individuals to move between traditional currencies and USDC on the Stellar blockchain. By handling the technical details behind the scenes, Zypto makes it simple for anyone—from experienced users to newcomers—to conduct transactions that bridge familiar financial tools and new blockchain-based resources.

“We are very excited about this milestone, which represents an important step forward in our efforts to connect everyday cash transactions with the growing world of blockchain-based finance,” said Joe Parkin, Co-Founder at Zypto. “Our cooperation with MoneyGram and the Stellar team to allow people around the world to access USDC on Stellar or convert it to local physical currency provides one of the simplest ways for users to move assets between the blockchain and cash economies. All without any banks involved! No bank? No problem!”

In recent months, Zypto has continued to broaden its scope and refine its services. Their mobile platform has expanded its range of supported networks, introduced reloadable crypto-funded cards on its app, and has even begun to roll out crypto bill payment solutions in more regions such as India, Pakistan and Malaysia, complementing the existing service for USA and Mexico. Even more countries are expected in the very near future. All these new options, along with the MoneyGram Access integration, are accessible through the Zypto App or on Zypto.com.

Zypto's user base continues to grow as its referral program gains pace. Users of their app report great cashback in the Rewards Hub, with holders of $Zypto token getting boosters and enjoying collecting daily rewards in Zyptopia.

About Zypto
