

Elevated Living Unveils TV Digital Signage Solution for Enhanced Community Engagement

The PropTech leader simplifies property management with a unified, cost-effective digital signage solution that boosts community awareness.

CHICAGO, IL, UNITED STATES, December 13, 2024 / EINPresswire.com/ -- ElevatedOS, a leading provider of technology solutions for Class A multifamily communities across the United States today announced the launch of its comprehensive TV Digital Signage solution that unifies community communications and resident engagement tools into a single, seamless system for property managers and landlords.

The new solution addresses a critical pain point in luxury residential property management by reducing the number of portals that on-site teams need to manage by 95%. This streamlined approach not only enhances operational efficiency but also delivers significant cost savings of up to 75% compared to traditional multiple-vendor solutions.

The platform modernizes community communications by replacing outdated PowerPoint slides with dynamic, customizable digital displays for lobbies, amenity spaces, and common areas. Property managers can easily integrate information from their resident app alongside essential widgets including local weather forecasts, transportation schedules and departure times, custom image galleries featuring community highlights like "Pet of the Month," neighbourhood perks at local businesses, community calendars, and custom announcements.

"Today's luxury residential buildings need a unified system that combines technology, service providers, and resident engagement," said Konrad Koczvara, CEO and Founder of ElevateOS.

"Our TV digital signage solution represents a fundamental shift in how property managers can create meaningful connections within their communities while significantly reducing operational complexity."

The platform's features include customizable digital displays for common areas, elevator screens, and resident apps, all managed through a centralized dashboard. Early implementations have shown a 72% increase in community awareness and communication effectiveness.

"We've witnessed firsthand how fragmented technology solutions can deteriorate the resident experience," continued Koczwara. "By combining digital signage with our human-powered hospitality approach, we're helping property managers deliver a premium living experience that truly differentiates their communities."

The TV Digital Signage Solution is now available to property managers, landlords, and real estate developers across the United States. ElevateOS invites interested parties to learn more about its offerings and schedule a demo.

ElevateOS' offerings are underpinned by its commitment to:
