What Are The Key Drivers For The Alzheimer's Disease Treatment Market?

One central driving force behind the thriving Alzheimer's disease treatment market is the increasing instances of Alzheimer's, the most common form of dementia. Projections indicate a steep rise in the number of Alzheimer's patients; for instance, in the US, all states are expected to see at least a 14% increase in Alzheimer's patients by 2025, primarily due to an aging population. Globally, new cases of Alzheimer's are expected to grow by 35% to 615,000 by 2030, and by a whopping 110% to 959,000 by 2050. Therefore, the escalating prevalence of Alzheimer's disease will likely drive the demand and subsequent growth of the global Alzheimer's disease treatment market.
