Two Whatevers Thank Fans for Overwhelming Support and Announce New Single, "The Ballad of John Dillinger"

Chicago's own Two Whatevers, the genre-defying duo blending folk-funk-pop-punk-shoegaze-no-new-wave-rock band, is thrilled to announce the resounding success of their debut single, "2 Whenevers." Since its release, "2 Whenevers" has garnered over 200,000 streams, been Shazamed more than 10,000 times, and continues to build a solid presence on radio waves nationwide.

Ballad of John Dillinger

Two Whatevers, comprised of Alison Brown (Thing 1) and Eben Hewitt (Thing 2), deliver a distinctive mix of soulful melodies, funk energy, and introspective lyricism. Their unique sound defies categorization, creating a sonic rebellion that's both captivating and intellectually engaging.

"We're incredibly grateful for the response to '2 Whenevers,' and we're even more excited to share what's next," says Alison. The band's new single, "The Ballad of John Dillinger," promises a bold journey through story and sound, blending historical intrigue with the duo's iconic genre-bending style.

Alison, a bassist with a PhD in Philosophy, has brought her eclectic life experiences into the band, from managing a punk band to reading tarot in the park. Eben, the band's guitarist, fuses art, technology, and music into a dynamic sound that resonates with fans across genres.
