WILMINGTON, DE, UNITED STATES,
December 18, 2024 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- The organic herbal extracts market has witnessed significant growth over the past decade and is poised to continue its expansion through 2030. Organic herbal extracts are derived from plants known for their medicinal, therapeutic, and nutritional properties. These extracts are primarily used in various industries, including food and beverages, pharmaceuticals, cosmetics, and personal care. Driven by increasing consumer awareness regarding natural and sustainable products, the demand for organic herbal extracts has surged globally.

The market's growth is also fueled by the rising preference for plant-based ingredients, along with growing concerns about the side effects of synthetic chemicals. As consumers seek safer and more natural alternatives, organic herbal extracts are becoming a key ingredient in many products, from skincare items to functional beverages.

Market Size and Growth

The global organic herbal extracts market was valued at approximately US$ 5.2 Bn in 2020 and is expected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of around 4.8% during the forecast period (2020-2030). The market's expansion is attributed to the increasing demand for natural and organic products across various industries. By 2030, the market is expected to exceed US$ 8.4 Bn, as both emerging and established markets increasingly embrace the benefits of organic herbal extracts.
