About KidWorks

Since 1993, KidWorks has helped children, youth and families living in under-resourced neighborhoods in central Santa Ana, California. As a 501(C) (3) nonprofit, KidWorks makes an 18-year commitment to its students walking with students from “Pre-K through B.A.”

One hundred percent of KidWorks 2024 high school seniors graduated on time and plan to pursue higher education and 48% are pursuing STEM-related majors. Additionally, 100% of our 2024 high school seniors reported that KidWorks College and Career programs were instrumental in preparing them to go to college.

Eighty-one percent of KidWorks college students are continuing to pursue their degrees (compared to the national four-year college completion rate of 27% for first-generation Latino students)

KidWorks provides students from preschool through university in under-resourced neighborhoods in central Santa Ana with holistic programs and experiences they need to become leaders both in and out of the classroom.

We are also proud that 91% of our preschool students who are eligible for kindergarten are assessed as kinder-ready (Compared to only 52% of Pre-K students in Orange County who are assessed as kinder-ready)

In addition to our traditional after-school programs, we added supplemental support to better serve the needs of our students and families. To learn more about KidWorks and to read our success stories, please visit <https://kidworksoc.org>
