

SweetBio's APIS® Synthetic Wound Matrix Now Available to VA and DOD Medical Facilities via Spartan Medical Partnership

Spartan Medical partners with SweetBio to bring APIS® Synthetic Wound Matrix to Veterans Affairs and Department of Defense medical centers on Federal contracts.

ROCKVILLE, MD, UNITED STATES,
December 23, 2024 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- Rockville, MD; December 23, 2024; SweetBio, a biotechnology company leading innovation in wound care, proudly announces its APIS® Synthetic Wound Matrix is now listed on two national Federal Government contracts. Physicians at Veterans Affairs (VA) and Department of Defense (DOD) medical facilities are now able to offer APIS® to patients with chronic, acute, and surgical wounds. This milestone was achieved through a strategic partnership with Spartan Medical, a veteran-owned government contractor dedicated to improving healthcare for veterans and military personnel.

APIS® sets a new standard in wound care by providing a low-cost, high-performing alternative compared to other commercial skin substitutes. Made with a collagen derivative,

Manuka honey, and hydroxyapatite, APIS® supports improved wound closure with powerful results supported in multiple peer-reviewed publications. Engineered for challenging wounds
