

AI-Weekly Surpasses 35,000 Weekly Readers

AI-Weekly, the world's leading weekly AI newsletter, has surpassed 35,000 readers, as demand for current AI news and trends accelerates.

WASHINGTON, DC, UNITED STATES,
December 23, 2024 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- AI-Weekly, the premier, weekly, human-curated news aggregation service, today announced surpassing 35,000 weekly readers. A milestone that highlights the growing demand for high-quality, human-curated content in the rapidly evolving field of artificial intelligence.

"Since launching the newsletter in February of 2024 we have seen rapid, consistent growth, both in readership and partnerships. I truly believe that 2025 will only see this growth continue." said Aaron Di Blasi, Publisher of AI-Weekly. "Our continued mission is to provide timely, insightful, and carefully curated content to help readers stay ahead of the latest trends and developments in artificial intelligence each week."

Aaron Di Blasi, Publisher, AI-Weekly

Launched in late February of this year, AI-Weekly has quickly established itself as the go-to resource for AI professionals, researchers, developers, engineers, educators and enthusiasts alike. The newsletter delivers a weekly digest of the most relevant and impactful AI news, productivity tips, guides, and explainer videos, all curated by an experienced, human, editorial team. With a focus on keeping readers informed and engaged, AI-Weekly combines the best of AI-powered aggregation with human oversight to ensure that only the most valuable information reaches its readers each week.

"We have been contacted by several large, prominent, AI-related companies, offering consistent pre-release news and information that we believe readers will find incredibly useful. These new partnerships will transform AI-Weekly from a pure news publication, to a news and insider information publication. And that is a serious game changer." — Aaron Di Blasi, Publisher, AI-Weekly

AI-Weekly, published by Mind Vault Solutions Ltd., brings decades of editorial experience to its human-led curation, ensuring readers receive only the most relevant news from an industry that is expansive, fast-paced and often times, AI-generated. Regular features include expert interviews, technology spotlights, ethical considerations, and AI's practical applications across industries, ensuring comprehensive coverage from multiple angles of the AI landscape.
