There is a need for meaningful allyship outside the capital because queer individuals who live in the provinces often face additional barriers.”

Atty. Tess Tan, Head of Legal and Compliance

Atty. Tess Tan, OP360's Head of Legal and Compliance, was shortlisted for the Executive Ally of the Year award for the second consecutive year. Meanwhile Brian Arvin Nepangue, Associate Director for Training, Quality and Development, was nominated as one of the finalists for LGBTQ+ Leader of the Year.

The Bahaghari Awards are organized by the Philippine Financial & Inter-Industry Pride (PFIP), an organization that fosters LGBTQ+ inclusivity across different industries in the country. From five founding members, PFIP has expanded to over 80, which includes some of the largest companies in the Philippines—including some on the Fortune 500 list—that have been recognized as equal opportunity employers and employers of choice.

As a finalist from Cebu, Tan expressed her utmost gratitude for the support and collaboration of her colleagues at OP360, upon receiving her nomination. “There is a need for meaningful allyship outside the capital because queer individuals who live in the provinces often face
