The two-phased project involves the renovation and modernization of two key facilities:

Phase One: Remodeling the existing Division Office at 2010 Geary Road, Pleasant Hill. This facility, spanning approximately 7,900 square feet, will undergo a complete transformation to become a state-of-the-art hub where emergency calls are monitored and dispatched. Once completed, operations will be transitioned to the new Communications Center.

Phase Two: Renovating the current Communications Center at 2900 Dorothy Drive, Pleasant Hill, into the new Division Offices. This phase includes a 7,800-square-foot remodel, along with extensive site work.

Key upgrades in the project include enhanced technology infrastructure to support advanced communications, extended living quarters, and improved general building amenities. Surrounding site work will address ADA-compliant parking, a path of travel upgrades, and fencing replacement.

The Contra Costa County Fire Protection District is one of the largest in California, providing fire, rescue, and emergency medical services to more than one million residents across 19 cities. This project reflects Thompson Builders' dedication to supporting critical infrastructure that safeguards local communities. Thompson Builders takes pride in constructing facilities that enhance public services, promote safety, and contribute to the betterment of society.

Thompson Builders continues to deliver high-quality construction projects across California, demonstrating its expertise in sustainable, functional, and community-focused developments. For more information about Thompson Builders and their projects, visit www.tbcorp.com
