

TurnBasedDave Launches New Game, The Embered Blade

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA, February 7, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- TurnBased Dave, an independent game developer and content creator, is excited to announce the launch of 'The Embered Blade,' a unique interactive game and social guild designed for streaming audiences. Inspired by retro fantasy JRPGs, the story begins with the prologue, "Fables by the Flame." Viewers will actively engage in every aspect of the game, from interactive combat and dungeon exploration to dynamic storyline progression. 'The Embered Blade' also includes a player profession system, which encourages viewers to directly contribute to the growth of the guild and the community by learning skills and producing items for use.

The story begins in the founding township of the guildhall, The Embered Blade. Viewers are introduced to important landmarks in the growing the town, such as a tavern, larder, and blacksmith. There is also an opportunity for audience members to build their own homes in the village. Viewers can choose to learn a profession and contribute to the town's provisions. By gathering and crafting items, the audience directly aids in combat and exploration.

The guild will face random encounters from monsters, foes, and other adversaries ranging in difficulty. The streaming audience actively participates in combat via a unique battle-system, pioneered by game developer Turn Based Dave. Viewers can attack with weapons or spells, along with using special items to strategically affect the outcomes of battles. This allows for a unique cooperative experience, where the community must work together to overcome growing challenges.

As the story progresses, the guild travels to new lands and meets interesting characters with offers of quests and rewards. From exploring dungeons to delving into crypts with underground labyrinths, viewers will choose which path to take while navigating the unknown.

'The Embered Blade' offers a unique interactive experience specialized for streaming audiences. Along with new buildings, new characters, hidden quests, and an expanding storyline, TurnBased Dave has planned to introduce an in-game economy. This marketplace will allow viewers to trade and barter for resources and special items.
